SHERIFF CHASES AN INCENDIARY

Stranger Fires Country Home of Mrs. William Lura

AUTO PURSUES TROLLEY CAR

Makes Good Threat Uttered in Tuesday Call

A stranger rushed into the home of Mrs. William Lura, five miles west of Lima, near Stop 9 on the Ft. Wayne, Van Wert and Lima Interurban line, at noon Wednesday and drove her and her two children out of the house, she told Fire Chief John Mack.

"Get out of here, I am going to set this house on fire," the stranger said.

WOMAN FLEES

Mrs. Lura took her two babies and fled to a neighbor's home. A few minutes later smoke was seen pouring out of upstairs windows. The unidentified man hurried from the dwelling and made toward the interurban tracks.

A call was sent in to the Lima fire department and Chief John Mack and a squad of fire fighters responded.

Half an hour before, Mrs. Lura had called Chief Mack and told him that a stranger had appeared at her home Tuesday afternoon, tried to buy her property and when she refused he exclaimed that he would "burn the shack down Wednesday noon."

Apparently the stranger tried to live up to his threat.

Neighbors assisted the firemen and the blaze was extinguished without any great damage to the structure.

POSSE ORGANIZED

A posse of men was organized and pursued the man who is believed to be the incendiary. Sheriff Charles Baxter and Deputy Clarence Fraunfelter reached the scene just as the interurban car left and they took up the chase in the Sheriff's auto, expecting to head off the car at the next stop.

MARY CARR POSES AS ANOTHER AMERICAN HEROINE CHARACTER

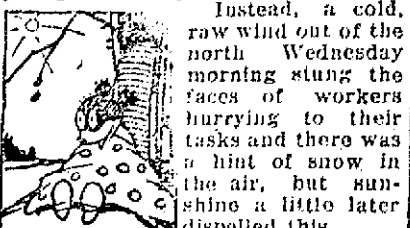

One would scarcely think that this is the same Mary Carr, who takes the part of Ma Benton in "Over the Hill," a Fox Film which is coming to the Sigma theatre next week, yet such is the case. She is the same person as the two old ladies who were American heroines Nos. 2 and 3.

It is all in the art of make-up, and the Lima News desires to know just how many Lima boys and girls know about famous American heroines. There is going to be cash prizes and tickets to the Sigma theatre given to those who give the correct answers and have the best essays. Follow the series each day.

FORECASTS OF WEATHER AWRY

Weather forecasts were all awry Tuesday and Wednesday. Prediction of rain or snow was abundantly unfilled. Promise of no change in temperature also fell by the wayside in the matter of transpiring as anticipated.

Instead, a cold, raw wind out of the north Wednesday morning stung the faces of workers hurrying to their tasks and there was a hint of snow in the air, but sunshining a little later dispelled this.

For tonight, the prognosticator has booked cloudy and colder conditions with snow in the north and Thursday fair and colder. Northwest gales are still on the program.

Youngsters who are owners of ice skates are perking up in anticipation of a renewal of the outdoor sport of skating.

PUBLIC UTILITIES LIFE OF CITY

Columbus Rotary Club President Addresses Lima Lions

That the public utilities of a city are in fact its public necessities and vitally essential to the growth of that city, was the striking definition given members of the Lions Club, Wednesday noon by D. H. Morris, president of the Columbus Rotary Club, speaking on the theme of "Making Great Cities Possible."

"What is a city?" he asked. "It is a place where human beings have made wherein by associating together and mutually cooperating, they may live and make a living with pleasures and privileges they could not otherwise enjoy."

THE MEASURE OF A CITY

"The degree in which it succeeds in providing for all of its inhabitants an opportunity to earn a living and to live in comfort, safety and happiness," the speaker declared, "is the measure of a great city."

"Can any city which has expanded in area and population more rapidly than it has developed its utilities, schools, water service or sewerage be said to be a great city?"

"If it not then true," argued Morris, "that if a city would be great it must foster and develop its services so they may be within the reach of all?"

"Utilities must grow as the city grows," said the speaker. "The growth of a few thousand in population means new homes at increasing distance from the center of town. This means an extension. These extensions take time; also they require money. New capital must be obtained from investors thru the sale of stocks. Public money will find its way into the treasury only of such utilities whose credit is good."

A new era in relations between utility and consumer is predicted by Morris. The idea of service is growing.

COURTESY ALWAYS PAYS

"Those who represent the mass of utilities," he said, "have spread by their example the truth that courtesy pays."

In conclusion, in outlining his idea of the great city, the speaker said:

"Show me the city whose inhabitants speak with pride of their clean streets, schools, well filled churches, efficient lighting plant, car services, telephone service and other utilities, and I will show you a great city, tho it may be the smallest in the land."

Among the other guests introduced were: George Bayly, president of Rotary club; Glen Webb, president of the Chamber of Commerce; L. S. Galvin, The Lima News; J. K. Johnson, manager of the Chamber of Commerce; Earl Rehn, member city commission and Howard Hoffman of the engineering staff of the United Gas Improvement company of Philadelphia. A number of Rotarian members were also present.

A written report of the year's activities of the Public Service department was presented and explained by Elmer McClain, retiring service director.

Myers Asks Divorce and Antenuptial Agreement Nullified

Charges that his wife, Mrs. Nora Miles Myers, induced him, under fraudulent circumstances, to sign an ante-nuptial contract, in which was contained a will, was made by David H. Myers, Marion-ty farmer, in a suit to set aside the document, filed in common pleas court Wednesday.

Without knowing what he signed, Myers claims he affixed his signature to an agreement a month before his marriage, whereby, at his death, she was to receive his farm of 40 acres of land in Marion-ty.

Myers says he reposed confidence in his intended wife and, guided by her influence and wishes, signed the document, which she had ordered prepared at the office of an attorney.

Myers' dower in a house and lot she owned was barred by provisions of the document. She was 42 and resided at the time of making the agreement at 817 E. North-st. Myers was 69 at the time of their marriage.

He asks that the agreement be set aside and his wife be forced to surrender the agreement.

In a suit filed later in the day, Myers seeks divorce from his wife, charging she has grown cold and disrespectful of him and refuses to live with him.

Myers says she keeps a rooming house and that she has barred him from her home, telling him she would "mash his head" and threatened physical violence to his daughter, with whom he was forced to find a home.

HOW TO SHOW LOSS OR GAIN

Conkey to Give Lesson in Filing in Returns Tomorrow

More specimen income tax cases are cited and solved today in the fourth article by R. A. Conkey, tax consultant of the Central National Bank Savings and Trust Company, Cleveland. Are any of these similar to your case?

BY R. A. CONKEY

QUESTION 29—An unmarried individual receives during the year salary amounting to $900, dividends $300 and insurance from his father's death of $5000. Should he file a return?

A. The insurance is not taxable and need not appear on the return. His net income, however, is $1200 and he must file a return. As the dividends are not subject to normal tax and his personal exemption is $1000, therefore he has no tax to pay.

Q. 30—What is the basis of determining gain or loss from the sale of purchased property?

A. (1)—With respect to property purchased since Feb. 28, 1913, the basis is its cost. The difference between the sale price and its cost is either gain or loss.

(2)—With respect to property purchased prior to March 1, 1913, the fair market value as of that date governs the basis. The following examples illustrate how this basis is applied:

Where March 1, 1913, value is greater than cost and less than sale price:

Property cost $1000.00
March 1, 1913, value 1500.00
Sold subsequent to March 1, 1913, for 1700.00

Actual gain $ 700.00

Taxable gain (excess of sale price over March 1, 1913, value), $200.00.

Where March 1, 1913, value is less than cost but greater than sale price:

Property cost $1000.00
March 1, 1913, value 800.00
Sold subsequent to March 1, 1913, for 600.00

Actual loss $ 400.00

Deductible loss (excess of March 1, 1913, value over sale price), $200.00.

Where March 1, 1913, value is greater than cost and greater than sale price:

Property cost $1000.00
March 1, 1913, value 1500.00
Sold subsequent to March 1, 1913, for 1200.00

Actual gain $ 200.00

which gain is not returnable, as sale price is less than March 1, 1913, value and therefore no taxable gain accrued since that date.

Where March 1, 1913, value is less than cost and less than sale price:

Property cost $1000.00
March 1, 1913, value 600.00
Sold subsequent to March 1, 1913, for 800.00

Actual loss $ 200.00

which loss is not deductible, as such loss did not accrue since March 1, 1913.

Q. 31—Why does the date March 1, 1913, govern the basis?

A. As this was the effective date of the first income tax law, gains accumulated prior to that date are not taxed and likewise losses accumulated prior to that date are not allowable deductions. This was the date of the passage of the 16th amendment to the United States constitution, permitting Congress to pass income tax laws without apportionment among the states. The law of 1909 was an excise tax law but based upon net income.

Q. 32—What is the basis for determining gain or loss from the sale of property acquired by gift?

A. If acquired by gift after Dec. 31, 1920, the basis shall be the same as it would have been in the hands of the donor or last preceding owner who did not acquire it by gift.

Q. 33—What is the basis if property is acquired by bequest, devise or inheritance?

A. If acquired to Feb. 28, 1913, the basis is its fair market value at time of acquisition.

Q. 34—Is a taxable gain or loss realized upon exchange of property?

A. Where properties of a like nature are exchanged no gain or loss is recognized, but if the property received has a ready realizable market value in excess of that of the property exchanged there may under certain conditions be a taxable gain.

Q. 35—What is meant by "net loss?"

A. This is a loss resulting from the operation of a trade or business regularly carried on by the taxpayer, including loss in disposing of any capital assets of the business. The amount of this "net loss" may be deducted from the net income of the succeeding year and if the "net loss" is in excess of such net income that excess may be deducted from the net income of the second succeeding year.

HARDING ORDERS PRICE PROBE

Government Agencies Linked to Investigate Living Cost

WASHINGTON — (By United Press) — All of the powers of the federal government will be used to force down prices and punish profiteers by jail sentences and fines, under orders issued by President Harding and his cabinet today.

A triple investigation of living conditions will be made to be followed by grand jury action whenever warranted.

The departments of justice, labor and commerce have united to find out why prices remain high in many localities. Attorney General Daugherty, Secretary Davis and Secretary Hoover will confer in a day or two. Meanwhile the criminal and secret service divisions of the departments of labor and justice will be coordinated to hunt down the profiteers.

Daugherty already has taken first steps:

Summoning federal and state officials to a conference in New York, to agree on a concrete program to be applied all over the country.

Orders to United States District Attorneys to rush to trial their cases against building material manufacturers and to redouble efforts to complete investigations of building material profiteering. The next step is designed to force down high rents.

SOMEBODY BLUNDERED

INSTANT death of three small children. A fourth dying later and several others not expected to recover from their hurts, while a score are more or less seriously injured, is the fearful cost of somebody having blundered.

Packed in a motor bus, en route to school for the day, 28 little children placed their trust in the driver of the vehicle. Their parents, having no fear of the danger of death that lurked, bade them goodbye when the truck came along in the early hours of the morning. Within a short time their mangled and torn forms were picked up from a railroad right of way near Van Wert. All because someone blundered.

Some of them were killed in death; others were dying. Still others received hurts that forced them to cry out in anguish as pain racked bodies tortured brain nerves. Frantic fathers and mothers rushing to the scene, where a monster implement of steam and steel crushed the carrier of human freight like an egg shell; torn and mangled bodies; the stillness of death, the shrieks of the wounded and dying out of the chaos wrought. Somebody committed a terrible blunder.

The driver of the motor vehicle, particularly careful and cautious, due to the fact that a heavy fog obscured a view of the ribbons of steel that mark the path of monster trains, stopped his vehicle at the approach to the crossing, alighted, walked to the railroad track, looked and listened. He saw nothing, heard nothing. The motor carrier proceeded. When squarely on the track, out of the fog loomed the black monster that was a juggernaut for little ones. The driver of the steam locomotive asserted he sounded the whistle as his train approached the crossing. Others say he did not. The train crew is held on a charge of manslaughter. The officials of Van Wert and of the State of Ohio have started a probe of the terrible incident that exacted as its toll human life and suffering. The dead cannot be restored to life. Someone blundered.

The newspapers teem daily with similar incidents. When they occur near one's own community it is then the horror of it all is felt. Such things are inexcusable. In transportation blunders mean death.

LIMA WELCOMES BINGHAM

CITY MANAGER CLARENCE A. BINGHAM was given ample evidence Tuesday night of the fact that, so far as Lima has progressed with the new form of city government, its people are well sold on the proposition.

Mayor Cunningham and Manager Bingham, as guests of honor of the Chamber of Commerce, in the annual banquet meeting of that body, laid their cards squarely on the table, face up, as spokesmen for the city commission. The president of the board gave to several hundred representative men and women of the city, in a succinct manner, inside facts concerning the plans of procedure of the board, in the task of governing Lima.

Manager Bingham, opening the books in a comprehensive statement of facts, told the assembly the exact situation as it exists. No excuses were offered, no complaint was made. Determination and optimism are the watchwords. It was quite natural that the men who have been chosen as the guiding hands of municipal affairs should ask for the aid of all citizens. It is a duty each and everyone owes. Without it, little can be accomplished in the way of desired results.

Promise of 100 per cent effort has been given by the commission and its organization. One hundred per cent loyalty and help is expected from every citizen. Nothing less will suffice.

The occasion was also featured by the presentation of Glen C. Webb, newly elected president of the Chamber of Commerce for the year 1922, with five new members of the board.

And Censat in banquet ate only the white meats of the damsel; the dark meats saved for friends of the roasted gill below stairs. And standing there one could read on the marble tablets and Row, wearing as is now becoming stylish, only a single evening, acquainted with his good one and turning to the guide discussed "Why they used our letters, didn't they?"

of directors. This organization has done a wonderful service for Lima. Facts were adduced that put to rout any doubt existing on that score.

The Chamber of Commerce, as well as the city administration, deserves and should be given, the united support of all those who believe in Lima and who wish to see this city grow and thrive. Lima has not been going backward. Far from it. New industries have been secured in a period of general depression. Big improvements have been put over.

While the program for 1921 has been a bigger success than even the most optimistic ever dreamed it could possibly be made, still bigger things are possible this year.

NEW FACTORIES COMING

INDUSTRIAL men in varied branches of endeavor are signifying their confidence in Lima. They are choosing this city to build new plants, coming here from other cities boasted as excellent manufacturing centers. The fact that they are doing this with practically no financial inducement in the way of bonuses indicates that they believe thoroly in Lima and its future.

Another big concern which will employ 300 men is practically assured. This was announced last night at the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce. Its proposition is very generous. Nothing is asked except the sale of a certain amount of stock and a great part of that already has been spoken for by those who hold shares in the manufacturing concern. This in itself is proof of the stability of the organization.

Lima will continue to attract manufacturers if the city's advantages are continued to be advanced as they have within the last year by the Chamber of Commerce. There is every reason to believe that this will be done, for the men elected yesterday to head the organization for the coming year have reputations for pep and push. In their hands citizens and members may feel confident that no opportunities will be allowed to slip by.

The city is especially fortunate at this time in having a wide-awake chamber, every member of which stands ready to do his or her part for the betterment and advancement of the city and people in general.

Mary Garden's life has been threatened. Some neighbors can't distinguish between good singers and bad singers.

HEALTH TALKS

Common Sense Ways to Keep Well

RURAL HEALTH

It is pleasing to note that our lawmakers, both state and national, are awakening to their responsibilities in regard to public health.

Ohio's latest step is affirmation of the Hughes-Grissold act, which gives the state health commissioner opportunity to improve the health of rural communities, unhampered by political influences.

Before enactment of the Hughes-Grissold law the number of health officers was measured by the number of cities and villages and townships.

Too frequently the only consideration for the appointment of such health officers was that each town and village was entitled to one. The question of fitness or knowledge of public health methods and procedure was rarely considered in making the appointment.

The act creates in each county a general health district consisting of all the villages and townships in the county. The mayors of the villages and the chairman of the township trustees meet once a year and elect members of the board of health.

This board of health consists of five members, one of whom must be a physician. The board of health selects the district health commissioner, who must be a physician.

The obstacle which has hitherto prevented persons in rural communities from taking active interest in the preservation of health has been the lack of facilities for obtaining information.

One other thing which has deterred them from taking active interest has been their isolation, which has been also their only protection from disease.

POEMS YOU WILL ENJOY

By BERTON BRALEY

WENT ON CUTTING

He painted pictures, frivolous and gay.

With deft and cunning ease, and with content.

He was not eager to experiment With art that should live longer than a day.

"But wait," men said, "until upon his way He meets with love, and pain; his heart shall vent

Its anguish, and his passion shall be spent On canvases that shall endure for aye."

And sorrow came, and bitterness, and pain.

The artist's soul was broken by his woe And all his rosy dreams were ash-en grey;

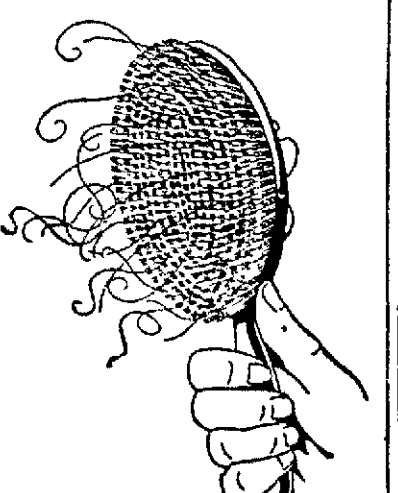

And then, because ambition seemed but vain And men must work, tho' all their visions wane

He painted pictures, frivolous and gay.

Public Is Amazed at Continued Enormous Demand for Tanlac

People All Over America Want to Know What Is Behind the Phenomenal Success of This Preparation That Makes It the World's Greatest Tonic.

Day after day the question is being asked all over the United States and Canada: What are the reasons for the phenomenal success of Tanlac? Why do we hear so much about it? And, why do Tanlac sales keep increasing every year, when other medicines seem to have a short-lived popularity and are then forgotten?

The answer is simple enough. The test of time has proven to people all over the American continent that Tanlac always produces most gratifying results and that the remarkable relief it brings seems to be believed possible.

Tens of thousands of persons, everywhere, who took it when it was first introduced six years ago, report that they are still enjoying excellent health and millions of American homes are now using Tanlac as the family medicine after first trying it out thoroughly and proclaiming it the World's Greatest Tonic.

Thousands of men and women of all ages and in all walks of life afflicted with stomach, liver and kidney disorders, some of them of long standing, as well as thousands of weak, thin, nervous men and women apparently on the verge of collapse have testified publicly that they have been fully restored to their normal health, strength and weight by its use.

Still others, who seemed fairly well, yet who suffered with indigestion, headaches, shortness of breath, coated tongue, foulness of breath, constipation, bad complexion, loss of appetite, sleeplessness at night and terribly dejected, depressed feelings, state that they have been entirely relieved of these distressing symptoms and restored to health and happiness by taking Tanlac.

Tanlac has never been advertised as a cure-all or that it would perform unheard-of wonders. The advertising has been clean, straightforward and conservative. Actual facts and figures have been stated in a true, business-like way that has commanded the confidence of all in the conservative claims set forth.

The enormous demand for Tanlac is due to merit alone, for no amount of advertising would continue to sell any article that does not possess real merit. Unless full value underlays the article advertised, the advertising will ultimately fail of its own weight. "You can fool some of the people some of the time, but you can't fool all of the people all of the time."

Tanlac has been well advertised. It is true, but a large and rapidly growing demand could not be brought about by advertising alone. It is what the people themselves say that counts. One bottle of Tanlac is sold in a neighborhood through advertising, but ten more are sold in that same community as a result of the sale of that first bottle and that is why Tanlac has succeeded. People are always willing to talk about their ailments, but they are more than glad to tell others of the medicine that helped them. It is something they could not keep to themselves if they tried, for the impulse to sympathize with their fellowtownsman and want to help him is one of the strongest, as well as one of the biggest, things in human nature.

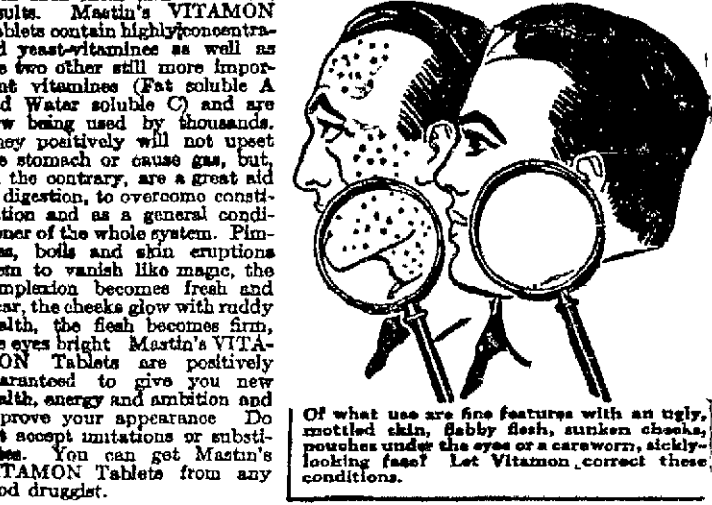

That is the reason why the people of every section of the United States and Canada, have become to speak of Tanlac as the World's Greatest Tonic. And that is the reason why the demand for this remarkable medicine has grown to such proportions that it is almost impossible to keep dealers supplied.

Tanlac is sold in Lima at Hunter's Drug Stores and by the leading druggist in every town.

SUSIE SMART SAYS

Dear Miss Smart:

I am a married man of 32. My wife and I have never gotten along. We are always quarreling. Perhaps we will get along for several weeks with out a word and then something turns up and we start to fight. I am tired of it. I always leave her whenever we have a fuss and she displeases me, but eventually I go back to her. Recently I met a young girl whom I love. I know I could always love her and be happy with her. My wife refuses to give me a divorce. She says she does not think it right and she does not want me to leave her. I cannot get along with my wife and so I think she should let me get a divorce and enjoy some happiness during my life. I don't you think she is selfish and that she should grant me my wish?

AN UNFORTUNATE HUSBAND

PERHAPS your wife is selfish, but words will not express what I think of you. For one thing, you lack principle. You are domineering and selfish and have been greatly at fault. What a foolish thing for you to do—to go away and leave your wife every-time she displeases you. You will find there will be many things that will displease you in life. The thing for you to do is to be man enough to take your share of the blame.

It is your wife's duty to do everything in her power to prevent the breaking up of her home and a permanent separation. You should feel complimented. Indeed, that she should want you to stay with her after all of your faithlessness. Few women would adopt her attitude.

Forget this unprincipled girl who would be willing to break up another woman's home. Make a man of yourself. If you do everything in your power to avoid quarrels and misunderstandings, it is likely your wife will do the same.

Dear Miss Smart:

I am a married girl, but am not to be married for over a year. Do you think it would be proper to have a party to celebrate my engagement now so my friends may know about it?

Unless you have some reason for announcing your engagement now, I think it would be far wiser for you to wait for awhile. There is an increasing tendency not to announce an engagement long before the wedding, but to wait at least until an approximate date for the ceremony has been fixed.

Dear Miss Smart:

(1) What kind of a dress is suitable for summer dressing? (2) What kind of feelings are worn with riding boots, leather or other kinds? (3) Will short dresses be in style this summer? (4) I have a black velvet dress made from my sister's coat. The place where the pockets were taken off is worn. How can I make it look like new? (5) Would you advise me to have my toenails taken out? They do not look very much on when I sink. (6) What kind of sugar is best to use in fondant candy?

DEAR READER:

(1) A plain, dark dress of some kind. A light frock should never be worn for traveling. It does not look appropriate and soils very easily. (2) Leather is worn more extensively. (3) The latest styles show longer dresses. (4) If the pockets come in front, why not embroider some pretty little design in several different colors of yarn? It would cover the worn spots, as well as give a touch of color to your dress. (5) I should advise you to see a specialist. (6) Just the old "standby," granulated.

CLEVELAND.—(Special.)—This is an advance introduction to the garment Miss 1922 Bathing Girl will wear at the beaches this coming summer.

Notice the difference in style. You can see from Miss Muriel Martin's picture what the difference between the suit of 1921 and the new one is to be. That's Miss Martin, a Zig-zag field Polles star, in the 1922 suit.

Shorter trunks, shorter skirts, narrower shoulder bands, and no sleeves.

"I'm for it," says Miss Martin. "It's a lot easier to swim in."

LETTERS TO LOVERS

What's to be done when a husband breaks his vows to the wife who does not believe in divorce?

This not uncommon situation presents distressing difficulties. Of it, a wronged wife writes thus: "A woman stole my husband from me."

"I knew first because he was strangely irritable and bored at home. Soon he began to stay down town, night after night. He became terribly nervous. I saw that he was losing his health—and I knew why. But I kept still until I was sure of the facts, and then we had one glorious battle. I took my babies home to my parents and left him to cure his nerves."

"The woman who stole him soon lost him to another. He is handsome and fascinating. Women find him easy to annex. Now he is down and out, his fine business is ruined."

"And after two years of separation, he has dared to write me love letters! He regrets the past, and asks my forgiveness. I am the only woman he has ever loved, etc., etc."

Misses Eva Baxter, Alice Henderson and Mary Pierstorff were hostesses to the members of the Sunning society at the home of Miss Pierstorff on State-st., Tuesday evening. An enjoyable musical program presided the business session and election of officers. The following were chosen: Miss Eva Baxter, re-elected president; Miss Mildred Jones, secretary; Miss Ruth Gamble, treasurer. A social hour followed and a dainty luncheon was served by the hostesses. Guests other than members were Mrs. D. S. Kemp, Mrs. L. C. Garter and Misses Elizabeth and Mary Baxter.

Mrs. Jenny Eger and Miss Mary Arthur will be hostesses at the next meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. David L. Dennison, who have been visiting with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Beall, of Richle-av., will leave Friday for Los Angeles where they will spend the remaining winter months.

Class No. 4 of the First Christian church met at the home of Mrs. Mildred Wholly, of S. Elizabeth-st., Friday. Mrs. C. E. Stockler was assistant hostess. Next meeting will be held Friday, February 3rd with Mrs. Will Alsopch of Harrison-av.

Miss Bess Bishop, of S. Union-st., welcomed a group of girls at her home to organize a social club, which will be known as the L. O. S. club. Cards and music were enjoyed after which a delicious two course luncheon was served by the hostess.

Members of the club include Misses Marietta Simons, Nora Kelley, Mildred, Bessie and Helen Bowers, Teresa Kelley and Bess Bishop.

Next meeting will be held in a fortnight with Miss Marietta Simons.

POLLY AND PAUL --AND PARIS

By Zoe Beckley

LIFE'S HARDEST JOB

After lunch, Polly and Paul, like the other passengers, rooted out their ship clothes and went on deck to locate their chairs and settle into them under the plaid rugs the steward wrapped so deftly about them.

Upon the other side of Paul was a chair with a handsome rug folded on it, a large box of chocolates and several new novels. Before she looked at the name upon it, Polly felt it would be "Miss Rand," and soon the lady herself appeared and was snugly ensconced at "Paul's elbow chatting animatedly. Polly listened between paragraphs of her book.

"Oh, yes, I'm working. Magazine assignments. I'm going on with my music, too. Didn't know I sang, did you, Mr. Dawson. Well, I do. And mother has sold the old place down south, so we're a little money. I have a darling flat on Avenue Malesherbes—rented from a friend, who had to come home, or I'd never got it. You and your wife must come to see me. I'll be so cozy. I'm crazy about it. Paris is the only place, isn't it?"

As Violet rattled on, Polly felt more and more nettled. She rubbed her wrong way, and she made her feel insignificant. Yet somehow she fascinated—even Polly. She personified the great world of self-reliance, knowledge, success. She knew how to meet all sorts of people. She understood men. How at ease she was!

Polly felt an increasing curiosity about the ring on Miss Rand's third finger and determined to learn its significance. So when some men came to drag Paul off for shuffleboard, she urged and insisted that he go.

"I'm so interested in your work, Miss Rand," began Polly when they were alone, "and your cunning apartment. It is possible, then, for a girl to live independently in Paris and not—not—"

"—be talked about?" finished Violet briskly. "Of course it is, just as it is anywhere else. It all depends on the girl. I'm used to being independent and doing what I like. Besides, I have my maid—and my music, which is in itself a sort of chaperone."

"It's better, I suppose, to study in Paris?"

Miss Rand pursed her lips. "Mm—yes. Especially in my white cloth."

CHILI SAUCE

Chili sauce has innumerable uses. When you're baking beans it there happens to be no salt pork put quite a quantity of chili sauce over the beans. If you want to give roast gravy an unusual taste put some chili sauce in the pan while it roasts. If you'd give delightful tang to the cold meat sandwich add chili sauce to the meat. After you have put it thru the food chopper.

REMOVING RUST

Sour milk will remove rust from white cloth.

Will your "Good Morning" last all day?

Easy to start from the breakfast table with zest and enthusiasm, but how easy is it to keep on?

Does ambition last, or lag, as the day develops?

The afternoon "slump" is a factor to be counted upon, in business or social life.

Usually, there's a reason.

Nerves whipped by tea or coffee won't keep on running, and they won't stand constant whipping.

Many a man or woman who has wished the afternoon would be as bright as the morning has simply been wishing that the nerves wouldn't have to pay the natural penalty for being whipped with the caffeine drug.

Postum gives a breakfast cup of comfort and cheer, without any penalties afterward. There's no "letting down" from Postum—no midday drowsiness to make up for midnight wakefulness; no headaches; no nervous indigestion; no increase of blood pressure.

Think it over. There's full satisfaction in Postum—a cup of comfort for anybody (the children included), any time.

You can get Postum from your grocer or your waiter today, and probably you'll begin to have better tomorrows, as so many thousands have had, who have made the change from coffee to Postum.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes.

"You can claim half of it," Harold was whispering eagerly into Virginia's ear. "You were with Bill when he found it."
"I can't—I won't," she replied, coldly.

"Gold, gold, gold," he whispered to himself. "Heaps and heaps of it—what I've always wanted. And Bill had to find it. That devil had to walk right into it."
He was sickened by the thought that except for his own cowardice he would have accompanied them into the den. Then he would have been in a position to claim half the mine—and get it, too.

He found a match. The white skeleton lay just at his feet. He drew back, startled, but instantly regained his poise. He knelt with unexplainable intensity. He too, saw the ghastly wound and its grim connection with the rusted gear. And he bent, slowly, like a man who is trying to control an unwelcome eagerness, lifting the pick in his arms.

Oh, it was easy to handle and lift! How naturally it swung in his arms! What a deadly blow the cruel point could inflict!

Bill made plans for an early start to his twenty-three mile cabin. "I'll leave before dawn—as soon as it gets gray," he told Virginia as he bade her good night. "I'll come back the next day, with a backload of supplies. And with the little we have left, we will have enough to go on. We can start to Bradleysburg the day after that."

Virginia took no pleasure in bidding him goodbye. Her voice sank almost to a whisper and her tones were sober and earnest. "I'll pray for you. Here's my hand, Bill."

He groped for it, found it at last; it was swallowed in his own palm, and the heart of the man raced and thrilled and burned.

He rushed on, his snowshoes crunching on the white crust. The powers of the wilderness gave him good speed—almost to the noon hour. Then he was suddenly aware that the fine edge of the wildernesses silent had been dulled. There was a faint stir at his ear drums. The stir grew to a faint and distant murmur, the murmur to a long swish like a million rustling garments. A tree fell, with a crash, far away. Then the wind smote him.

It was from the southeast. No man of the Northwest provinces is unacquainted with this wind. It is played for in the spring because its breath melts the drifts swiftly, but it is hated to death by the traveler caught far from his cabin on snowshoes.

It did not occur to Bill to turn back. Already he was nearly halfway to his destination. The food supplies had to be secured sooner or later, and when the Chinook comes no man knows when it will go away. He rushed thru the softening snow.

The truth suddenly dawned upon him that he was face to face with one of the most uncomfortable situations of all his years in the forest. He didn't believe he would be able to make the cabin before the fall of night.

His woodman's senses predicted a bitter night. Thru the black hours he would have to fight off sleep so that he could mend the fire and cut fuel.

Late afternoon: already the shadows lay strange and heavy in the distant tree aisles. And at last, once he passed, thrust, in his tracks, a little way to the east, on the bank of a small creek, his father and his traitorous partner had once had a mining claim—a mine they had tried unsuccessfully to operate before Bronson had made his big strike.

They had built a small cabin, and for nearly thirty years it had stood moldering and forgotten. Eminent and thankful, Bill turned in his tracks and rushed over toward it.

XVI.
There was plenty of heart-breaking work to do when Bill finally reached the little cabin. He couldn't force the door, so he hacked a hole in it thru which he entered.

After looking about, he turned to his tool of making a fire just outside the hole.

Tired out, he climbed inside again and lay down on the dry dirt, putting his arm under his head.

All at once he was aware that his eyes were fastened upon an old cedar box on a shelf against the wall.

As he reached to seize it, he had a premonition of misfortune. It contained a single photograph.

It was a typical old-fashioned photograph—two men standing in stiff and awkward poses in an old-fashioned picture gallery—printed in the time-worn way.

One of the men was his own father. And he stared at the other face—a rather handsome, thin-lipped, sardonic-eyed face—as if he were looking at a ghost.

"Great God," he cried. "It's Harold Lounsbury!"

But instantly he knew it could not be. Harold Lounsbury. Already he knew it. It was no other than Rutheford the man who slew his father.

His deductions followed with deadly and remorseless certainty. He knew now why Harold Lounsbury had come into Clearwater. Virginia had told him that her lover had seemed to have some definite plan in view for his prospecting; he had simply come to search for the same lost mine that Bill had discovered the previous day.

He knew now why Kenly Lounsbury had been willing to finance Virginia's trip into the North—not in hopes of finding his lost nephew, but to find the mine of which he also had some knowledge.

In the same sweep of realization he knew why Harold Lounsbury's face had always haunted him and filled him with hazy, uncertain memories.

Harold Lounsbury was Rutheford's son—the son of his father's murderer, Kenly Lounsbury was Rutheford's brother.

All at once the smoke from the fire began to pour in upon him, choking his lungs and filling his eyes with tears.

XVII.
For a moment Bill gave little attention to the deepening clouds of pungent, biting wood smoke that the wind suddenly shifting whipped thru the hole he had cut in the door.

This was the most bitter moment of his life, and he was lost and remote in his dark broodings. The smoke didn't matter.

The fight for life no longer seemed worth while.

The smoke deepened in the cabin. It seemed to be affecting his power to stand erect. He tried to think of some way to save himself; his mind was slow and dull.

He knew that he couldn't get out of the cabin.

There was only a little hole in the door; to crawl thru it, inch by inch as he had entered, would subject him to the full fury of the flames.

Meanwhile the fire burned higher, the wind blue the clouds of smoke from the green wood thru the hole as if it were high pressure steam.

It soon was impossible for Bill to see—even to hold his eyes open, the cruel smoke tortured them so.

At last a man was caught in a terrible trap of his own making that man was Bill Bronson.

His ax! With his ax he could chop the door away. His hand fumbled at his belt. But he remembered now; he had left his ax outside the cabin, its blade thrust into the spruce log that had supplied his fuel.

Suddenly he saw himself face to face with seemingly certain death. The smoke clouds were swiftly and surely strangling him. Already his consciousness was departing. He leaped for the opening again and fell sprawling on the dirt floor. He started to spring.

But he suddenly grew inert, breathing deeply. There was still air close to the ground. Strange he hadn't thought of it before—just to lie still, face close to the dirt. It pained him to breathe; his eyes throbbled and burned, but at least it was life. Then all was confused—oblivion.

When Bill awakened again, the whole as if it were high pressure steam.

When Bill awakened again, the last pale glimmer of the lighted smoke was gone.

The fire had evidently burned down and out.

His fumbling hands encountered the log walls; then he groped about till he found the plank door. His hands smarted, but their sense of touch did not seem blunted.

He had never known a darker night!

His muscles were more at his command now; with a great lurch he sprang up and thrust head and shoulders thru the hole in the door.

The hot ashes punished his face and he encountered hot coals as he thrust them thru. Yet with a mighty effort he pushed on until his wrists touched to icy snow. He knew that he was safe.

He stood erect, scarcely believing in his deliverance.

The wind still blew the snow dust—a stinging lash from the north and west.

It was curious that a cloudy night could be so cold. Yet he could not see the gleam of a star.

The coals of fire, too, were smothered and obscured in ashes. He stepped toward them, intending to rake them up for such head as they could yield.

Presently he halted, gazing with fascinated horror at the ground.

His hand groped for a match. He heard it crack in the silence, but evidently it was a dud! The darkness before his eyes remained unbroken.

Filled with a sick fear, he removed his glove and passed his hand over the upthrust match. There was no longer a possibility for doubt. The tiny flame smarted his flesh.

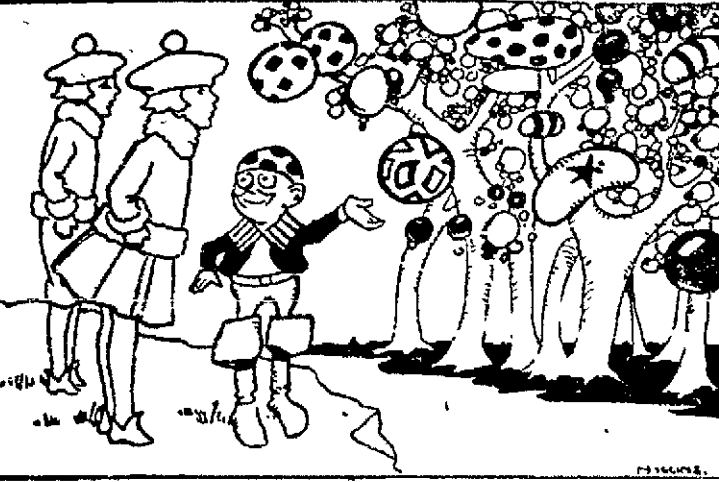

"Blind!" he cried. "Out here in the snow and the forest—blind!"

It was true. The pungent wood smoke had done a cruel work.

A QUEER FOREST

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"I want you to see the balloon nursery. It's here in the woods."

Buskins pulled on the rein of the green paper elephant he had been riding and came to a stop. Nancy and Nick, coming up behind him, stopped too and slid off.

Reddy Bounce and Blue Jumper, the fat jolly rubber balloons, arriving just then took charge of Nancy's pink pig and Nick's blue poodle.

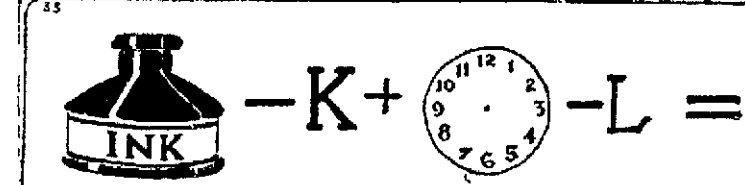

"Now," said Buskins, straightening his head-kerchief and pulling up his high boots, which had become unsettled in riding. "I want you to see the balloon nursery. It's here in these woods."

The twins were all curiosity by this time for the Land of Lost Balloons was about the queerest place they had ever been in, and wonders were not to cease, to judge from the noise that was coming from the woods where Buskins was leading them, a forest of great rubber-trees like the pictures in the geography books.

But these rubber-trees were different because they bore such queer fruit—balloons, if you please, of all colors and sizes, yes, and shapes, too, for where in the old days rubber balloons were all of a shape and round as moons, nowadays it's nothing at all for a balloon to look exactly like a large watermelon or a squash, or a string of sausages, and one I know of, my dears, had cars like a rabbit. Every kind of balloon was growing here.

But the noise! All babies were crying.

"It makes them grow," said Buskins. "All the balloon people grow here," he went on, waving a hand. "And the babies are the squawkers."

"They make such a noise folks can't stand 'em in the city. Sometimes they cry so hard they fall off the trees, then they can't grow any more, and they are sent to mortal children to play with. But I understand that mortal parents aren't fond of their noise either!"

SMITH HURLS DEF AT SCHLATTER'S YOUNGSTERS

Carl Smith has agreed to send Jake Gross in the ring against Babe Bream at Memorial Hall January 27 at 126 1-2 pounds, eight ounces more than Bream weighed when he fought Oscar Kolk at Cincinnati January 2.

But Ed Schlatter is sticking out for 128 pounds, and says he will not let Bream fight an ounce less. Smith also agreed to weigh Gross in at 15 pounds at 3 o'clock in the afternoon against Don Baxter.

Schlatter wants Gross to weigh 127 at the ringside. Smith says nothing doing, so plans for the coming show are still up in the air.

If Schlatter doesn't come down, tired of this dickering stuff that has taken on the aspects of a poorly staged comedy.

Edie Mullen wants to fight Gross if he beats Ted McDonald in Toledo Friday night.

JACK QUINN AFTER YOUNG'S RECORD

BY BILLY EVANS

CY YOUNG had pitched 23 years when he retired from the major leagues.

Young's career is a record for service as a ball player. It has never been seriously threatened.

A contender for the honors held by Young looms up in the person of Pitcher Jack Quinn of the Boston Red Sox.

Quinn, it will be remembered, figured in the recent deal between New York and Boston, which sent him to the Red Sox and brought Pitchers Jones and Bush, as well as Shortstop Scott to New York.

When Quinn reports to the Red Sox next spring he will be starting on his 29th year of professional baseball. That would make him appear old in the point of years, yet he is only 35 years of age.

MADE DEBUT IN 1903

Quinn made his professional debut with Connellsville of the Pennsylvania State League in 1903. He remained with that team thru the season of 1906.

The following year he was with Macon in the South Atlantic League. In 1908 he was with Richmond in the Virginia League.

That fall thru the medium of the draft he was secured by the New York American League club.

As a big leaguer Quinn met with varying success. He managed to stay in the big show until the fall of 1912, when he was sent to the Rochester club of the International League.

FEDERAL LEAGUE SIGNS HIM

His good showing in 1913 with Rochester, when he won 19 victories, caused him to be grabbed off by the Federal League in its quest for players. He labored for two years at Baltimore in the outlaw organization.

When the peace pact was put over he was sent to Vernon, in the Pacific Coast League. He stayed there for the seasons of 1916, 1917 and part of 1918. When the coast league closed because of the war, Quinn finished the season with the Chicago White Sox.

The New York American League club claimed the right to his services under the peace pact. The national commission awarded him to the Yankees.

He reported to the New York club in 1919 and has been with the Yankees ever since. Next year he will wear a Red Sox uniform.

AN EXCELLENT CHANCE

Quinn has an excellent chance to better the record of Cy Young. He has still enough stuff to get by in the majors for a couple of years, and ought to be able to fool them in the minors for that length of time.

Jack Quinn has an excellent curve ball, despite the fact that he has never made much use of it. His curve ball is good enough to fool a lot of them.

In the effort to break the record held by Young the Yankee pitcher, as being given a tussle by Babe Adams of Pittsburgh.

Adams started at Parsons, in the Missouri Valley League, just a year later than Quinn, and will be starting his 19th year in the spring when he reports to the Pirates.

Other pitchers who have seen long service are Red Ames, with 19 years to his credit, and Eddie Plank with 18.

Miami Plans To Start Coaching School In June

OXFORD — Miami University will establish a Coaching School this summer under the direction of Coach George Little for the training of coaches in high school athletics. It was announced today by Dean H. C. Minnich, head of the Teachers' College, in which the coaching courses are to be offered.

The school, which will open June 13, will offer a six weeks term of training in the major sports, in football, basketball, track and field sports and in it seems advisable a second term may be given during the summer. The Coaching School, Dean Minnich stated, is to be permanent, continuing thruout the winter terms and is being offered during the summer to give men now in school or teaching the advantage of such training.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

In view of the increasing importance of physical education and athletics in the public school system, Miami University officials have now made it possible for men expecting to coach in high schools to apply as much as twelve credits in coaching courses and physical education towards their degree in Bachelor of Science in Education.

Coach George Little is well fitted to head such a school, having coached several Ohio Conference Championship teams and having been head of the coaching school of George Peabody College, Nashville, Tennessee, for the past two summers.

TOO TOUGH FOR GIBBONS

TWENTY-TWO proved the final for Tommy Gibbons, generally considered a logical contender for Jack Dempsey's title.

After scoring 21 consecutive knockouts, Bartley Madden of New York tripped up the St. Paul heavyweight.

When Madden was matched with Gibbons, fistie experts began figuring how long the New Yorker would last. Most of them doped it out that five rounds would be long enough. Harlequin thought he would stay the limit.

Madden not only stayed the 15 rounds in their bout at Grand Rapids, but was never seriously in danger of taking the count.

FANS START TALKING

Ordinarily a knockout occasioned surprise. However the failure of Gibbons to score a knockout, after having put 21 opponents to sleep set the fistie experts talking.

Is Gibbons as good as the critics have insisted he was?

Was his knockout record of 21 straight the result of matching him with a lot of set-ups?

Who is this fellow Madden who stayed the 15 rounds without once kissing the floor?

Those three questions have been the topic of conversation among boxing enthusiasts since the Gibbons-Madden bout.

LIMA THEATRE RECEIPTS TO AID POOR OF CITY

(BY ESTHER WAGNER)
In Springfield, Ohio, last week, there was uncovered a singularly pathetic case of poverty. Ten persons, husband and wife with 10 children were found living in an abandoned log hut, with no furniture and no food. All the children were sleeping in one bed and they were wrapped about their feet for shoes. The husband had always been a hard-working man, but he was jobless. He said he believed he could make a living cutting wood if he only had an axe.
We read about Russia, yet such incidents as these are not the exception in every community. Who knows but that there may be a parallel in Lima? It is a fact that times are very difficult for the poor. More severe perhaps than ever before in 50 years. The burden of support rests upon each and every community—a sacred burden, for in this civilized age humanity must not actually suffer.
Refreshing indeed comes the proposal of the Lyric theatre in this connection which is that during the week of January 15 to 21 inclusive 10 percent of its gross receipts will be donated to the needy of Lima and vicinity. Everybody who spends a dollar at the Lyric that week will have automatically donated 10 cents to a movement in which there is none more urgent right now.
Everywhere and on every hand favorable comment is being heard in connection with the attitude of the Lyric theatre in this connection. The picture The program for the week in question is: Sunday, Monday and Tuesday "The Mysterious Rider." Wednesday and Thursday, "Scandal" with Constance Talmadge in the leading role. Friday and Saturday "Jane Eyre."

Majestic's Free Matinee Today
MANAGER HENRY MICHAEL, of the Majestic theatre, offers to patrons today the initial free matinee, which he has announced will be in progress one day each week during the month of January and possibly longer.
This novel and thoroughly commendable step on the part of the South-side theatre will enable many families of the city to enjoy a first-rate movie at no cost whatever. The regular program features are in progress, from 1 o'clock till 5 every

"Over the Hill," With Mary Carr
FOLLOWING the initial presentation on Broadway of William Fox's highly successful motion picture "Over the Hill," a number of reviewers remarked upon the correctness of detail in the scenes in the early part of the film which is in the nature of a prologue and supposed to antedate the latter action by twenty years or more.
The stage settings for various sections of the production came in for enthusiastic approval from the reviewers. THE MORNING TELEGRAPH said: "It is a bit from the life of plain people, and it is all right— from the shabby furniture to the red-and-white checked tablecloth. For all the film is in black and white, we know that the tablecloth was red."
The Times remarked: "In the direction, Harry Millarde apparently has achieved accuracy of setting, and some of his scenes show insight and skill." The Evening Journal referred to "the old farmhouse dining room in which we found all the comfort and none of the plush, while all the plush and none of the comfort was in the parlor." The picture shows at the Sigma all next week.

Paralysis Conquered By Chiropractic
To Whom It May Concern—
"I take pleasure in thus expressing my appreciation of the benefits received from the spinal adjustments given by Dr. Ezekiel Hadsell, whose office is on the southwest corner of the Public Square.
"We son, Harry, and myself were taken ill with diphtheria on or about August 30, 1921, and were given the antitoxin treatment and cared for by the most skillful of physicians. I became paralyzed in my hands and arms and in my legs from my knees down and on December 1, 1921, after all other methods failed, I started taking chiropractic adjustments and after taking twelve, am in a normal condition again.
"Harry Peter, my son, aged 17, became utterly helpless and had to be fed, dressed, lifted around and cared for like a baby. After fifteen spinal adjustments he now walks, goes to school, works and cares for himself normally.
"I cannot speak too highly of chiropractic and of the skill of Dr. Ezekiel Hadsell, and I can recommend spinal adjustments to those who are afflicted.
"FRED A. FETTER,
"Bath Township, Lima, Ohio."
Subscribed and sworn to before me this seventh day of January, A. D. 1922.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL
Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute
Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.
Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "lousy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 30c.

DO YOU GET UP NIGHTS ON ACCOUNT OF BLADDER?
This Symptom Tells You Something Is Wrong. A Dayton Man's Experience.

Mr. John Lumpkins, 7 Carrie St., Dayton, Ohio, says in his own home paper, the Dayton Herald: "For two years I had to get up fifteen to twenty times each night. The scalding and pain was awful. After taking a few doses of Lithiated Buchu, the gravel came, until at least twenty-five pieces have passed. Some were as large as a bean. I am glad to have this way of telling my fellow sufferers about this great new remedy."
Lithiated Buchu acts on the kidneys and bladder like Epsom Salts on the bowels. It cleans them out and helps to relieve the bladder of abnormal deposits. The tablets cost 25c each. This price makes it possible to place in the formula several expensive drugs, which are useful for relief. The formula is on the package. It is likely you have never taken anything similar. Try a few doses for backache, scalding, scanty or high colored urine and frequent desire at night.
Be sure to get the Keller formula. Lithiated Buchu at drug stores everywhere, or write The Keller Laboratory, Mechanicsburg, Ohio.

MUTT AND JEFF—THIS FINALLY SUNK INTO MUTT'S BEAN—

BRINGING UP FATHER—

By McMAN

SHORT SHAVINGS

A. P. "Put" Sandlos, Ottawa and Columbus, went down the street so bundled up in goggles, mittens, overcoat and mufflers he could hardly be seen. "The doctor told me my temperature is a degree and a half below normal," he said. "Since then I've had a mighty hard time to keep warm."

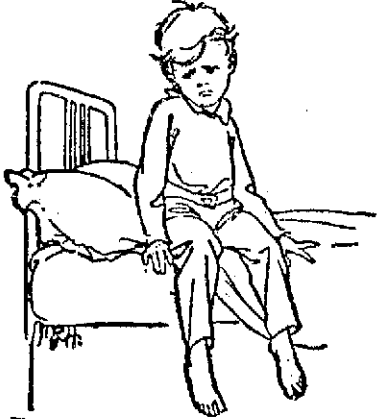

A leader store saleswoman answered the telephone and said hello to a young woman who asked: "What shall I do with my sick goldfish?" He didn't know. "I think I called the wrong place," she said. "I wanted a bird store."

City Auditor I. P. Clem started home by Interurban car with a package given him by a friend from the country. He threw the package into the rack above the seat. The package began to drip. "I think I shouldn't have thrown it," he says. "The package contained eggs."

Mel Light, attorney, started home to keep an engagement. On the car he remembered he left his office safe unlocked. So he went back. On the car again he found he left his pocketbook at the office. He got the pocketbook, and: "When I reached home," he says, "I found I had left my keys in the office door."

MOTHER!

Open Child's Bowels with "California Fig Syrup"

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, give a teaspoon to cleanse the liver and bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works. All the constipation, poison, sour bile and waste out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.—Adv.

Rheumatism Can Be Treated At Home

No change of climate is necessary in treating rheumatism with Mrs. Summers' popular home method. Chronicure. Sufferers from rheumatism, lumbago and neuralgic pains report speedy relief from these tortures after trying Chronicure, which aids nature in cleansing and toning up the system. Ask your druggist, or send for FREE TRIAL of Mrs. Summers' Chronicure, with useful information, by addressing The Summers Medical Co., Box R, South Bend, Ind.

More than a hundred delightful uses

That's why most housewives always keep plenty of Perfection Wafers in the pantry. There is hardly a dish made that these tasty little wafers will not make more appetizing. Between meals, especially, hungry youngsters are satisfied by a generous helping of Perfection Wafers.

Sunday suppers are changed from the commonplace to most inviting meals with plenty of Perfection Wafers, and for the before bed-time bite—well, there's nothing anywhere near as pleasing.

Your grocer will be glad to supply you. Look for the case that keeps them crisp and clean.

NERVOUS AND HALF-SICK WOMEN

These Letters Recommending Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Will Interest You

For Your Own Good Please Read Them

Youngstown, Ohio.—"Last fall I began to feel mean and my back hurt me and I could hardly do my little bit of housework. I was played out when I would just sweep one room and would have to rest. I would have to put a cushion behind me when I would sit down and at night I could not sleep unless I had something under my back. I had awful cramps every month and was just nearly all in. Finally my husband said to me one day, 'Why don't you try Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine?' and I said, 'I am willing to take anything if I could get well again.' So I took one bottle and a second one and felt better and the neighbors asked me what I was doing and said, 'Surely it must be doing you good all right.' I have just finished my eighth bottle and I cannot express to you how I feel, the way I would like to. If you can use this letter you are welcome to it and if any woman does not believe what I have written to be true, she can write to me and I will describe my condition to her as I have to you."—Mrs. ELMER HEASLEY, 141 S. Jackson St., Youngstown, Ohio.

"I was very nervous and run-down," writes Mrs. L. E. Wiese of 706 Louisa St., New Orleans, La. "I would often sit down and cry, and was always blue and had no ambition. I was this way for over a year and had allowed myself to get into quite a serious condition. One day I saw your advertisement in the daily paper and began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once. I have improved ever since taking the third bottle and find it is the best medicine I have ever taken."

Benefited by First Bottle
"I was completely run down and not able to do my housework. I just dragged myself around and did not have energy to get up when once I sat down. I read advertisements of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in our paper 'The Indiana Daily Times,' and learned all about it. I received results from the very first bottle and now I am doing all my own work, even washing and ironing, and I never felt better in my life. I tell all my friends it is due to you."—Mrs. ELIZABETH REINHOLD, 403 N. Pine St., Indianapolis, Indiana.

You should pay heed to the experiences of these women. They know how they felt before taking the Vegetable Compound, and afterwards, too. Their words are true.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent you free upon request. Write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Massachusetts.
